SCHOOL REPORT.

CENTRE.

Miss Elizabeth F. House of Canterbury, teacher. Three terms, ten weeks each. Miss House has an aptitude for teaching and a tact in governing-power that makes her presence in the schoolroom a delight to pupils and parents. Great improvement in the general deportment of the pupils was noticeable at the close of the year. This school house, the best in town except the Shakers', is in need of repairs.

BOROUGH.

Spring term of ten weeks. Taught by Miss Mary A. Bachelder of Northfield.

Fall term, eleven and one-half weeks. Taught by Miss Clara Pickard of Canterbury.

Both teachers succeeded as well as could be expected under the circumstances. The children are bright and active, but the school house is poorer than any dwelling house in the neighborhood, and entirely unfit for school purposes.

We were unable to have a winter term, because the room could not be kept warm. Three hundred dollars would repair and furnish this building, which would then become the pride, instead of the reproach, of the neighborhood.

SHAKER.

Miss Jessie Evans taught the first term of nine and the second term of ten weeks.

Mr. Arthur Bruce the third term of eleven weeks.

This school ranks highest among our town schools. It may be well to seek the cause of this superiority. It certainly is not because the pupils are naturally brighter than those of other schools.

Our friends of Shaker Village provide a house for the children as perfect in every detail as the best dwelling in the village. It is furnished with most of the necessary apparatus for school work. They insist on keeping the house in good repair. They place their most competent teachers in continuous charge of the children. We can see that the outward conditions go far towards teaching three fundamental principles of a good school—order, cleanliness, and politeness.

The contrast between the Shaker school house and all the other school houses in town is very marked, and does no credit to parental love.

A good school house is a benefit to parents and to all property-owners in the neighborhood as well as to children, and we cannot afford to continue the present state of school buildings.

Centre, Borough, and Shaker schools reported by Caroline F. Emery.

CARTER.

Winter term, Miss Mary M. Emery, teacher.

Miss Emery was very thorough and spared no pains with her pupils. We were well pleased with the recitations at the close, and the examination indicated thorough work on the part of teacher and pupils.

EMERY.

Summer and fall terms, Miss Susie E. Richards, teacher.

This was Miss Richards' first experience in teaching. Good order was maintained. Her methods of instruction were very good for so young a teacher.

HILLVILLE.

Summer and fall terms taught by C. Ella Hancock.

Miss Hancock has taught this school a number of terms with good success. The school is quite small, compared with what it was a few years ago.

Winter term taught by Mrs. Sarah Small, a teacher of experience.

Good progress was made in this school for the year.

Reported by W. D. Ingalls.

DEPOT.

Summer and fall term, Miss Mabel A. Carter, teacher.

This was Miss Carter's first experience in teaching. Good order was maintained throughout the term. The examination showed good progress in all the recitations, both terms.

Blanchard, Carter, Depot, Emery, and Hackleborough schools reported by C. N. Clough.

BLANCHARD.

Summer and fall terms, Miss May Williams, teacher.

Miss Williams is an experienced teacher and conducted both terms of school very successfully. The pupils showed unusual interest in their studies, and did credit to themselves and their teacher at the examination.

Winter term, Miss Connor, teacher.

We are unable to give a full report of this school at this time. It was late in the season before we could get a teacher for this district. The school is now in session. We were in the first week of school, and were much pleased with Miss Connor's methods of instruction.

HACKLEBOROUGH.

Miss Evans, teacher.

This school was small in numbers. This was Miss Evans' first experience in teaching, and gave good satisfaction to the school board.

GENERAL REMARKS.

No edifice depends more for its firmness on the main corner-stone of its foundation than the virtue and intelligence of the people in our town, state, and country depend on our public schools.

A good common education is a better inheritance to children, from their parents, than any amount of money without the education. "Riches certainly make themselves wings ; they fly away as an eagle toward heaven." A good education no man can take from us.

How may we best insure the success of our schools? Does it consist entirely in securing the services of good teachers, and in procuring the best of text books and charts? We answer that it does not. We must also have good comfortable school houses. We have done away with old-fashioned tools—with which we pursue our daily occupations—and have secured new ; we have also improved our homes in appearance and comfort, but what have we done for our children in making the school houses nice and comfortable? It is time to think of these things and do something to rectify them, for it not only benefits those who send children to school, but the entire community.

If you wish to purchase a home, is it not your first question, What are the advantages of schooling?

The record of attendance of the fall and winter terms has been somewhat broken by the unusual amount of sickness.

As we were unable to secure efficient teachers, some of the schools did not begin as soon as we desired.

Quite a number of pupils have had the advantages which were received by attending Kezer Seminary. We wish there were more that might be thus benefitted.

Your committee have tried to give their best aid to teachers and parents in making the schools a success, and trust the school year has been a productive one for the advancement of education.

WILLIAM D. INGALLS,

Chairman for School Board.
